

Cometa Advance LT

Spanish firm Cometa has been manufacturing high quality airguns since 1874. And its latest range-topping model, the Advance LT bullpup, certainly looks to be carrying on that tradition!

The Cometa Advance LT PCP Air Rifle is an heir to a centuries-old tradition of high quality gun making. Carabinas Cometa is a specialist in the development of craftsman-built airguns. In fact all the components of the airguns are manufactured in Spain. In particular, the main parts of the airguns – the barrel, stock and tube – are manufactured and controlled by Cometa itself. All the airguns are individually tested and calibrated; power and velocity levels are individually set to the requirements of each market. The new Advance regulated version, equipped with Robert Lane's Lancet regulators, offer more stable speeds and maximise each gun's shot count considerably. The regulated versions have two pressure gauges to allow the user to see the pressure in both the regulator and the air tank at a glance. HAMMER TIME Cometa is one of the very few manufacturers who cold-hammer forge barrels – a vastly superior barrel making process that really does improve accuracy. This process ensures consistency and power – so much so that Cometa actually produces barrels for several German manufacturers. Cometa firmly believes that the success of a precharged air rifle is governed by the quality of the barrel. For this reason, it rigorously controls the whole process of manufacturing, from the selection of the raw materials to the final finishing. Cometa's barrels are precision drilled and then cold hammered in a purpose-built machine. The hammering process guarantees a mirror finish to the bore and imparts massive strength to the barrel. Each rifle then undergoes the most rigorous quality control and testing procedures to ensure that the finished article meets the very highest standards of workmanship and performance, of which Cometa is justly proud.
